

CBRS Update
March

We support two projects run by CBRS in Nepal. The first is the general project, which we have been able to sustain for more than twenty years. This is functioning well; we had envisaged having to divert funds again this year to help people suffering because of Covid-19, but this has not been necessary. The Omicron wave lasted for two weeks and although many people, including CBRS staff, were infected, there were very few serious cases or deaths. Life is therefore back to normal in Nepal. Two longstanding members of staff have left CBRS. Govinda has retired having reached the age of 60 this is CBRS' official policy. Yao Maya has also stopped work to look after her mother and grandmother. They have been replaced.

From July 2021 to January 2022, CBRS has completed: 11 income generation projects, 20 ongoing child sponsorship programs, helping 35 children to continue school attendance, four self-help group training sessions, distribution of 21 disability aids, 4 awareness raising events in schools and helped 10 clients obtain disability cards.

The second project is our outreach which is achieving good results with two workers helping 200 clients they can visit 10-12 children per day. They have formed a good working relationship with the local government. CBRS will analyse the clients' needs to decide who requires ongoing support and who can continue with a self-help group plus local government help.
